college preparatory education, career training in high growth occupations, and college-credit classes.

The LAYC Career Academy (LAYCCA) is an innovative school model that provides a bridge between high school and college for youth ages 16 to 24 in the District of Columbia. LAYCCA provides youth with college credits, a rigorous and self-paced GED program, a college preparatory curriculum and career training in the health care and information technology (IT) fields. Ninety five percent of our students are working or in school within six months of graduation.

Part I, Line 1 Continued

LAYC Career Academy's main objective is to prepare young people for college and careers. We do this by providing strong academics using the principles of positive youth development to foster skills like self-awareness, self-confidence, problem-solving skills, and resilience. Based on their assessment scores, students are placed into one of the LAYC Career Academy student sub-groups. From there, students work towards earning their GED, college credits and post-secondary education. As students move through our program, they benefit from an advisor-advocate model, community building, student recognition programs, and social activities that create a school environment in which they feel comfortable and valued.

We provide our students with:
